

What's Trending?

#megalakebath
#soakinginaloe
#itwasthisbig #thunderrolls

The Daily Seuss

Blistering Talent in Whoville

The day started normal enough with a brisk polar bear swim followed by morning sessions. Around noon, the clouds parted and cosmic Seuss rays poured into the kamp. The afternoon was spent fishing followed by a kamp-wide beach day. Sand was castled, water tramps bounced, and kids blobbed. (Picture below) As the sun set, excitement propagated in the barn. Karaoke singers were heard across the lake as melodies were belted out by the KACE chorus. The night closed with special guests visiting each cabin telling stories and singing songs.

Fish Population Reduced

The DNR reported a shortage in sunfish in Big Cormorant Lake yesterday. No charges have been filed, but Kamp KACE kampers are the prime suspects.

KACE Boys Make Bid for 2014

A casual game of dodge ball transformed into an epic battle for the ages when the oldest boys prepped for the national tourney shown on ESPN 8. #theocho.

They Might Be Giants

Sleepy boys were carried back to the cabins in the strong arms of 4. #futurecits #neededsomemuscle

Breaking News Brief...

CITs clean bathrooms. Kampers and counselors thrilled. #getyourcloroxon

Today's Highlights

Sessions
Run or Dye
Fish Fry
Campfire with Skits

High 85° Low 67°

KACE Most Wanted

Marsha stalked kamp KACE yesterday, wielding sunscreen in both hands and attacking any exposed skin with ill regard. She should be considered armed and extremely safe.

It Was All Just A Dream

Last night, while all the Who's were asleep in their beds, a storm was brewing. All kampers and staff had a PJ party in the storm shelter singing songs and cuddling with friends.

Trivia Answer

Answer from yesterday: Sarah, Leah, Isaac, Aryeh, Hudi, and Zach